About Town

And Country
By TIMOTHEUS T.

That dew we had on the ground this morning added 10 feet to the level of Lake Harrisburg and with the spillway not complete the water rushed down Middle Fork with such force that it eroded the creek out 22 feet wider on each side. It sure is nice, that Lake Harrisburg, and didn't those bass that were put in reach a nice four-to-six pound size real quick?

I got a news release from Al Willis that the Mt. Vernon-Mt. Carmel game will be replayed in Dayton gym in a matter of a few days, that an accurate count was not made of the crowd the first time they met here and that another game is needed to get a total for the ISHA record book. The result of the game is not important, Willis said, adding that only an accurate count of the crowd is needed.

The New York Central locomotives were puffing out steam again today and the toot from the steam whistle was a familiar sound once more.

And have you driven out North Main street lately? Out by the fairgrounds? Hasn't the paper all around the dumping ground been cleaned up dandy? The corner looks pure enough to spread a picnic lunch. Who'll make the chicken salad?

The state police, after wearing their new hats three days, have received a new order from headquarters. Starting Saturday they will wear old-fashioned sun hats and will put up their new hats until next winter.

The state got a chance to buy for practically nothing 6,000 sun hats of assorted colors that were found back in a locked-off room of a Chicago warehouse and they've sent them out to the boys already. Rocky has a pink one, Adolph a red and white checked one, Guthrie one with blue and white stripes, Roy a solid yellow one, Mike a chartreuse one and Herbie and Murray bonnets made of royal purple organdy.

I ran across Frank Baker and asked him what he knew. "Nothing at all, Tim," he replied. "I haven't heard anything in weeks."

The city hall, to alleviate the parking problem, has marked off free parking spaces on the east side of the building and is continuing to invite the public to use them.

"It will save us the trouble of having to carry so many parking meter nickels to the bank," Chief of Police Loren Travelstead remarked. He received strong backing from Finance Commissioner G. R. Johnson on this statement.

The Shrine circus, I understand, will be held uptown this summer. They're going to run a cable from WSIL tower to WEPC tower and let the high performers work from it. They're going to leave the cable up after the show and string the Christmas lights on it next Dec. 27.

By now, maybe, you're wondering about the A. F. that is breaking up this column. Does it stand for African Falcon? Nope. For Anticlimactic Fouriescope? Nope. For Arenaceous Fluoroscope? Not on your life! It stands for April Fool.

He was a former coal miner last working at Peabody 47 mine.

Besides his wife, Mary, he is survived by eight children: Mrs. Charlie Betz, Mrs. Joe Durant, Mrs. Talbot Syers and Andrew Hazley Jr., all of Harrisburg; Mrs. Cyrus Cable, Galatia, Mrs. Leroy Hartwick, Alton, Francis A. ## Sears Named Counsel for Army Inquiry

Selection is Approved by Senate Committee Members

WASHINGTON (UP)—The independent counsel for the inquiry into Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's dispute with the Army will be Samuel P. Sears, Boston, the Senate Investigations subcommittee announced today.

Temporary Chairman Karl E. Mundt (R-S.D.) said Sears will begin selecting his staff Monday and public hearings will start the following week.

Mundt said Sears' selection was approved by all six subcommittee members voting. Chairman Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) announced earlier he would not vote on the question.

Sears, a balding, 58-year-old man with a clipped gray mustache, was puffing a black pipe beside Mundt as his appointment was announced.

Second Offered Post

Sears' selection climaxed a search of 16 days for a prominent, impartial lawyer to head the subcommittee's investigation into Army charges that McCarthy and regular subcommittee counsel Roy M. Cohn used pressure to get favors for Pvt. G. David Schine, a drafted former aide, and of McCarthy's countercharge that the Army tried to "blackmail" him.

Sears is a member of the firm of Brickley, Sears and Cole of Boston.

Mundt said he was only the second man to whom the post had been offered. The other was William K. Jameson, president of the American Bar Assn., who turned it down as too controversial.

Mundt said Sears had been on vacation in the Caribbean and Florida, and had only been reached by telephone Wednesday.

No Partisanship

"I am fully aware of the responsibility which is now mine, and what this entails," Sears said. "I am resolved to conduct this investigation as dispassionately as I can and without partisanship."

In response to questions, Sears said he has never taken a stand on McCarthy or so-called McCarthyism.

Questioning brought out that he had a dispute with the dean of the Harvard Law School about communism.

"I would not say it was a confession," he said.

CIO Kicks Off Drive for Annual Guaranteed Pay

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The International Union of Electrical Workers formally kicked off the CIO's drive for a guaranteed annual wage today at the opening of 1954 contract talks with Westinghouse Electric Corp.

The IUE negotiations cover 48,000 Westinghouse employees. The others are presented by other unions, affiliated with the AFL or independent. No negotiations have been scheduled with them.

The IUE is the first CIO union to press the guaranteed annual wage proposal as a key demand on a national scale.

The United Auto Workers, largest of the CIO unions, has announced it will make the same demand when negotiations open with the auto industry, and the big United Steelworkers Union was reported preparing a modification of the demand.

The IUE's current wage contract with Westinghouse, which along with General Electric and General Motors rounds out the big three of the industry, expires June 30. The union would be free to call a walk-out the following day unless a settlement is reached by that time.

James B. Carey, president of the IUE, has declared the guaranteed annual wage is essential to bulwark workers against growing unemployment.

However, Westinghouse has pointed out that its payroll has been mounting steadily over the years.

The Harrisburg Township assessor's organization this morning started the assessment of real estate and personal property.

Clyde Hess, assessor, said that the assessor's office will be in the board of review room on the second floor of the court house. Office secretary will be Norma Carpenter. Those who will assist with the assessing are J. Brit Pierson, M. C. Shell, Nelle Wheatley and Jessie Spangler.

Lower Excise Taxes in Effect; Firms Passing Savings Along to Customers

WASHINGTON (UP)—Federal excise taxes were reduced by a billion dollars a year today on dozens of items and some business firms passed the savings along immediately to consumers.

Lower excise or sales taxes went into effect at midnight on such things as TV sets, refrigerators, golf clubs, cameras, sport and entertainment tickets, telephone tolls, transportation and electric light bulbs.

Price cuts were close behind for some of these items. And the Internal Revenue Service said some persons are entitled to a partial refund of taxes they paid in the purchase of advance athletic, entertainment and travel tickets.

Hope to Spur Buying

President Eisenhower signed the excise cut bill into law Wednesday and said he hoped the reductions would help spur more buying. The same measure cancelled today's scheduled tax cuts on liquor, beer, wine, gasoline, automobiles and cigarettes.

Internal Revenue Service technicians labored into the night drafting new rules to fit the law. The job is expected to take another day or so to complete. There are still some unanswered questions about how the reductions would be applied.

Some business firms beat the government to the punch by announcing lower prices on products affected by the tax cuts.

Cuts Are Not Mandatory

Kelvinator Corp., makers of refrigerators and other household appliances, was among the first. It sent its dealers new price schedules shortly after Mr. Eisenhower signed the bill. Spokesmen for other industries said they planned similar action.

Price cuts are by no means mandatory under the new law, however. The law only cuts taxes. Each business can decide whether to pass the tax savings on to consumers or pocket the savings itself.

The rules are less flexible for installment plan purchases of jewelry, luggage and furs which are in progress but not complete and for tickets already purchased for travel or entertainment and sports events scheduled for today or later.

Designing to cut down mounting surpluses that have filled government freezers with about 350 million pounds of butter.

Farm state congressmen fought to the end in a futile effort to get Benson to soften the long-announced support cut which they said would bring financial ruin to many dairy farmers. But Benson refused to retreat.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), who comes from a major dairy state, sought vainly Wednesday for last-ditch Senate action to block the support cut. He charged that a "scandal is brewing in America."

He said the only persons who would benefit from Benson's action were speculators who, he said, would rush in to buy millions of pounds of cheap butter and unload them at a profit when prices go up.

"This is called policy," he shouted. "It's nothing but planned confusion."

A spokesman for Benson flatly denied a report the secretary had threatened to resign if the White House blocked the support level production.

Rep. Melvin R. Laird (R-Wis.) was quoted as saying President Eisenhower has given tentative approval to a modification of the cut-back but Benson spiked it by threatening to resign.

Benson was quoted by an aide as saying "there is certainly nothing to it."

Find Cheaper Material for Making H-Bombs

Strauss Hints Discovery Came From Soviet Blast

WASHINGTON (UP)—An informed source said today "we have found a way of making H-bombs at a fraction of what we had expected them to cost."

"We found a cheap material," he added, "that costs a matter of dollars a pound which can be used to replace a substance that costs thousands of dollars an ounce."

This source, who is privy to everything that goes on in the U. S. atomic project, refused to identify the cheap material, although he said, "we can assume the Russians know about it."

His remarks appeared to support previous statements from other sources that the current Pacific tests have established that hydrogen city-killers can be made more cheaply and more simply than had been supposed.

One of these sources said the mammoth March 1 explosion at Bikini incorporated ingredients and triggering methods tested by the Russians in their hydrogen explosion of last August.

Chairman Lewis L. Strauss in his White House statement Wednesday on the Pacific tests made a remark about the Russian H-bomb that some observers considered highly significant.

When this country actively started its H-bomb development in 1950, scientists figured the weapon's vital ingredients would be triple-weight and double-weight hydrogen—tritium and deuterium.

Both are costly, particularly tritium. But after last August's Soviet hydrogen explosion, unofficial reports were heard that the Russians had hit on something less expensive than the heavy forms of hydrogen.

In Wednesday's statement, Strauss said the Russian explosion "derived a part of its force from the fusion of light elements." He added, "there is good reason to believe that they had begun work on this weapon substantially before we did."

Strauss did not identify the light elements used by the Russians, but some sources believe one of them could have been lithium, the lightest of metals. It is relatively cheap and plentiful.

Strauss, who made his H-bomb remarks at President Eisenhower's weekly news conference, was warmly praised by many congressmen for his "frank statement."

They were particularly impressed by his assertion that H-bombs can be built big enough to knock out any city—one as big as, as metropolitan New York.

A few hours after Strauss' statement the house voted $1,061,000,000 to speed the construction of more and bigger hydrogen and atomic bombs.

To Let Bids for State Highway Projects in County

Projects calling for 14.59 miles of improvement construction on highways in Saline county will be submitted to a letting at Springfield on April 14, it was announced by the Illinois Highway division today.

Project details follow:

.66 mile concrete base course, 6.12 mile concrete widening, .72 mile bituminous surface treatment

U. S. 45 from Illinois 34 near Harrisburg southwesterly through Carrier Mills.

.11 mile of bituminous surface treatment on Illinois 13 approximately one mile east of Harrisburg.

6.87 mile of bituminous concrete resurfacing and .11 mile of bituminous concrete resurfacing on the same project.

Teachers' Group Proposes 'Certificate Of Attendance' Only for Unruly Students

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (UP)—A teachers' disciplinary committee today said some high school students are getting so out of hand in Illinois that it's time to quit giving them diplomas and grades.

The teachers proposed unruly and uncontrollable students be given "a certificate of attendance" instead of diplomas and report cards.

They said problem students are not only an increasing hazard in Illinois, but in other parts of the country too.

The special committee of the Illinois State Federation of Teachers proposed that "students who make no effort to study in high school be given a certificate of attendance, rather than diplomas or grades."

Richard J. Brett of Waukegan, the committee chairman, said the proposal has been turned over to a standing committee on professional standards for presentation to the federation's convention in Allerton Park, April 23 and 24.

"Mere school attendance would not qualify a student for a diploma or passing grades under the new proposal," Brett said. "A certificate of attendance should be awarded for poor social attitudes and lack of application to study," the proposal went on.

"These type students are a handicap to both teachers and to students who want to study," Brett said.

He said the problem is compounded by the fact that so many administrators and principals feel that such problems belong to teachers, and that administration only is the business of administrators.

Stratton Proposes AF Academy Site Near Champaign

WASHINGTON (UP)—Gov. William G. Stratton of Illinois and Rep. Leslie C. Arends (R-Ill.) have proposed formally that the new Air Force academy be established south of Champaign, Ill.

Stratton and Arends discussed the proposal with Air Secretary Harold E. Talbott Tuesday, it was learned. The proposed site is 12 miles from Rantoul, Ill.

Only four states, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Vermont and Maine, have made no bid for the academy.

The field is wide open, an Air Force spokesman said. Talbott will appoint five commissioners to make a new survey, and will decide on a site after studying their recommendations.

Dolan Convicted Of Perjury in Ransom Case

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—St. Louis policeman Elmer Dolan, once a hero for his part in capturing kidnaper Carl Hall, was convicted Wednesday of lying about what he did with the $600,000 ransom money Hall was carrying.

The perjury conviction, however, shed no light on where the missing half of the record ransom paid for little Bobby Greenleaf is now.

A Federal Court jury deliberated 3½ hours before returning a verdict that Dolan lied when he told a grand jury that he took two suitcases containing the money to a St. Louis police station at the same time the kidnaper was brought in to be booked.

Defense Atty. Mark Hennelly announced he would ask for a new trial, and Judge Albert Ridge gave him until April 15 to file the motion. Sentencing was delayed until that date.

Dolan and Lt. Louis Shoulders arrested Hall at the Town Hotel in St. Louis last Oct. 6. Shoulders also has been charged with perjury in connection with the disappearance of the ransom, largest ever paid, and will be tried April 12.

McCarthyism is An Issue at Maine Convention

BANGOR, Me. (UP)—The Maine Republican state convention opened today with McCarthyism squarely in the center of the stage despite the efforts of party managers to shoo it into the wings.

On the one hand was Delegate Harold C. Perham of West Paris avowing to introduce a resolution from the floor condemning "the reprehensible tactics" of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) as an investigator.

On the other, was Senate Candidate Robert L. Jones of Biddeford saying "I will be shocked if the convention adopts such a resolution."

Typical of the reaction of party leaders to the developing squabble was the attitude of First District Congressman Robert Hale who said: "I'm against the mention of McCarthy in any way at the convention."

Still unheard from on the McCarthy issue was Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me.) who Jones opposes for the GOP Senate nomination in the June 21 primary. She is expected to arrive at the convention today.

Sen. Smith, apparently confident of renomination, has pointedly ignored Jones' candidacy and his overtones so far. For instance, state election records show she spent only $1248 on campaign expenses in March while Jones paid out $1,047 for that period.

The Smith-Jones contest has pushed the McCarthy resolution, fanned by the obscure West Paris delegate, into the limelight and ebowed state issues into the shadows.

Sen. Smith and Sen. McCarthy long have been at odds because of the woman senator's 1950 "declaration of conscience" which was widely considered as aimed at the methods of the Wisconsin Republican.

Jones repeatedly has made known his admiration for McCarthy and there has been considerable speculation that McCarthy put him up to running against Mrs. Smith.

800 Register at Opening Session of State WMU Convention

Some 800 registered at the opening session of the state Woman's Missionary Union convention which started this morning at the McKinley Avenue Baptist church and will continue through Friday evening.

Rev. Robert Sherer, of East St. Louis, missionary to Japan, brought the morning message, "Sing Ye Islands of the Sea."

French Report Several Planes Downed by Reds

HANOI, Indochina (UP)—French military commanders reported today that "several" French planes flying supplies to besieged Dien Bien Phu were shot down by Red anti-aircraft fire and warned their pilots to attempt no more landings.

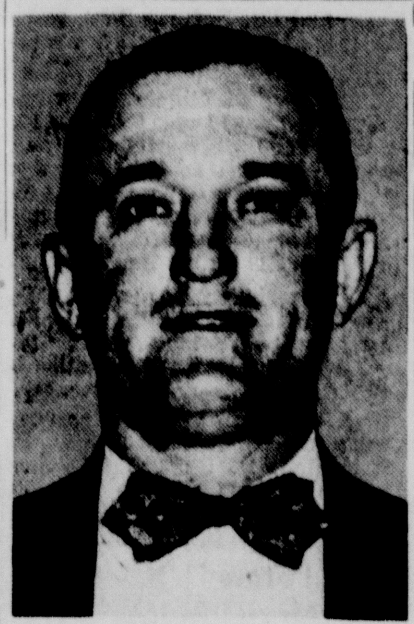

The intense Communist fire forced pilots to abandon, at least temporarily, their attempts to land on the airstrip of the embattled fortress with new supplies of ammunition and food.

No Americans were involved. The French command said, meanwhile, that it is anxiously awaiting the arrival of 25 additional American B26 light bombers to beef up the air armada which has been blistering the Communist attackers with napalm, anti-personnel bombs and strafing attacks.

They said that if the B26s arrive in time the French may swing the tide of battle against the Reds in answer to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' warning that Indochina must be held.

The outnumbered French defenders were still holding fast to their strategic fortress in spite of the grim pit in their supplies by the Red anti-aircraft gunners.

French commanders said the Communist "human sea" attacks were lighter today after 48 hours of furious mass assaults.

France Fires Marshal Juin for Insubordination

PARIS (UP)—France fired Marshal Alphonse-Pierre Juin, her most respected soldier, from all of his national offices today for an act of insubordination that followed his criticism of the European Defense Community project.

The cabinet humbled Juin, France's only living marshal, for ignoring an order to appear before French Premier Joseph Laniel and account for his anti-European army statements.

Jun was instead, to a reserve officers' meeting and said he would not change his stand which he thought he had made clear.

"I do not read Mass twice for deaf people," Juin said. "I made a speech last Sunday which was pretty clear. I said what it said. All governments involved knew what I thought. I precipitated the affair in full knowledge of my responsibilities."

Jun was ousted as vice president of the Superior Council of War and as permanent military adviser to the government.

Future in Hands of Gruenther

The outspoken 65-year-old French hero of two World Wars who won the confidence of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower retained his title of marshal but it was indicated he may be dismissed as commander of all Allied ground forces in central Europe.

Jun's future status in the defense of the West against aggression was placed in the hands of Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, supreme Allied commander in Europe, who was reported displeased with the marshal's statements against the proposed European Army.

The marshal last Sunday said he favored replacing the European army with a military system that would permit each nation to handle its own military force rather than take part in an integrated unit.

Laniel and French President Rene Coty met Wednesday night to consider Juin's rebuff and then the cabinet held a session that lasted beyond midnight.

The cabinet announced that, in firing Juin from his government posts, it had acted only on his insubordination and not on his opposition to the European army.

lifted next week and the public will get its first glimpse of a hydrogen explosion. However, this column is able to give a word preview of the horrible holocaust, which must be seen in technicolor
to be fully appreciated.

What the public will see is a tremendous fireball, filling the horizon with flame and smoke. This was the world's first hydrogen blast, the one that plunged a rocky atoll 175 feet down through the ocean floor on Nov. 1, 1952. Yet it was a mere firecracker compared to the latest hydrogen explosion exactly one month ago today.

The public will be shown the feverish preparations for the first H-blast. They will see a black, two-story structure atop a lonely atoll.
This was known as the H-house, which housed the hydrogen device.

Then the cameras will show a control ship about 10 miles out to sea from the archipelago, about 35 miles from the fateful atoll. The public will watch while the control switches are pulled.

Then the horizon flames up, and a monstrous fireball takes shape.
The announcer explains that the fireball, alone, is three miles in diameter, though it is only the red eyeball of the blast. It is then superimposed over the city of New York, showing how the center of Manhattan from Washington Square to Central Park would be turned into a fiery furnace, and the rest of the city would be devastated by shock and heat waves.

POISONOUS GEYSER
The fireball finally erupts into a geyser of smoke 25 miles high and forms the familiar mushroom cloud. Some scientists have suggested that it ought to be called a toadstool cloud, because it is deadly poisonous.

Most fearful result of a hydrogen explosion, scientists say, is what they call a heavy "falling off." This means the shower of radioactive ash that rains down over the area. In an atomic explosion, the radioactive residue is scattered in a fine spray that has a tendency to stay up in the atmosphere until it dissipates. A hydrogen blast, however, not only throws the radioactive poison over a wider area, but the particles are heavier and fall as literal fire-drops from the sky, searing whatever they touch.

Failing Eyes Halt Woman Quilter, 105

WHITEWRIGHT, Tex. — A 105-year-old woman whose quilting masterpieces blanket the nation has put aside her needle and thread for keeps.

Mrs. Mandy Mangrum says failing eyesight finally caught up with her. She was 106 on March 31.

Her quilts literally cover the country. She's pieced them for her children, grandchildren, great grandchildren and also has sent them to civic organizations and state institutions. Her one ambition before she "retired" was to piece a quilt for a great-great-great grandchild.

Neighbors of Mrs. Mangrum, who lives with her son, Joe, 78, claim she is the world's champion quilter. "Mother Mangrum" as she's known in Whitewright, has been quilting since before the Civil War.

Remove the transparent cover from a lamp shade before using it.
The material has a tendency to shrink with heat from the light bulb and will warp the shade. The cover also reduces the amount of light.

Chicago Makes Defense Plans For Evacuation

CHICAGO — Civil defense officials today laid plans to evacuate all of Chicago, including the animals in zoos, in case of an enemy attack with city-killing thermonuclear weapons.

Illinois Civil Defense Director
Robert M. Woodward, returning from a Washington conference, said there would be a complete overhaul of defense plans, based on evacuation rather than the shelter system of defense.

About five million persons live in the Chicago area, some 3,600, 000 of them in the city proper.
Loaded with heavy industry itself, and near the Gary, Ind., steel mill area, it is one of the nation's most inviting bomb targets for enemy forces.

Woodward said the heart of the new defense plans would be to develop—within 18 months—a system of emptying the city in six hours. He admits it is a staggering job.

Would Pick Up Walkers
All women and children would be evacuated from the city as soon as war broke out, for instance if Washington were hit by the first wave of enemy bombers.

Male residents would be hustled out of the city as soon as a bomb alert was flashed for Chicago itself.

Residents without cars, or persons who could not use their own, would leave their houses and start walking out of the city.

Taxis, cabs, trucks, private autos and government vehicles would be expected to pick up the walkers as they left the city.

Refugees would first be taken to 26 centers about 15 miles outside the city. Presumably, they would be there when the bomb struck.

As soon as possible they would be sorted out, classified and sent to refugee centers scattered thruout the Midwest.

The Air Force said the general's son, 1st Lt. Hoyt S. Vandenberg Jr., has returned from Germany, and his daughter, Mrs. Robert R. Miller, will arrive here soon from her home in Colorado Springs, Colo.

They will join Mrs. Vandenberg, who has been at the general's side since he entered the hospital last fall.

No Serious Damage To Peach Orchards

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP)—Early reports from southern Illinois peach orchards indicate most blooming peach trees were not seriously damaged by frost Wednesday night when temperatures dropped to 22 to 24 degrees.

Harold Hartley, secretary of the Illinois Fruit Council, said that "while exact damage is hard to estimate now there should be no appreciable decrease in the crop."

"Those temperatures naturally would do some damage but we can stand some bud kill and still come up with a good crop," Hartley said. "I visited about 15 orchards this morning and I don't think we have anything to worry about."

Hartley said most orchards are on high ground and escaped serious damage although a few orchards in lower elevations where frost was heavier had some pretty bad bud damage.

"One grower south of here reported a high percentage of bud kill and another near Anna thought he had a nearly total loss," Hartley said. "A couple of days will tell more about what damage we had. Some damage takes time to materialize."

NLRB Seeks Court Ruling Against Waterfront Picketing

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board sought a Federal Court injunction against all waterfront picketing today in a new attempt to end the 28-day-old dock strike.

The injunction request, made by NLRB regional director Charles T. Douds, was based on a blanket complaint of intimidation and unfair labor practices served on the striking Independent International Longshoremen's Assn. Wednesday night.

It appeared based on hopes that greater numbers of dock workers would return to work if the threat of violence could be lifted from the pier entrances.

More than 5,000 AFL longshoremen reported for work Wednesday, crossing the rival union's picket lines in covered trucks at most points.

The port remained crippled, however, numbers of cargoes were diverted to other ports and large liners tied up and debarked their passengers with the aid of office personnel.

Civil Defense Film Shows How Island Was Completely Wiped Out by H-Explosion

WASHINGTON — This is the story of what happened to an island that tangled with an H-bomb. The hero is Elugelab, one of the specks of land that make up the Eniwetok atoll in the Marshall Islands in the Pacific.

Elugelab died a violent death in the fall of 1952, the victim of a man-made dragon that breathes terrible fire and smoke.

Now is only a deep dark crater under the surface of the ocean. The Civil Defense Administration told of Elugelab's fate when it showed newsmen films this week of the world's first full-scale hydrogen explosion.

The films showed: A stretch of dark blue water where once the island Elugelab had stood.

A sun-like fireball large enough to engulf one-fourth of Manhattan Island.

A crater broad enough to accommodate 14 buildings the size of the Pentagon and as deep as a 17-story building is high.

3-Mile Annihilation A mushroom cloud that soared within two minutes 32 times as high as the Empire State Building and spread laterally for 100 miles.

If the blast were duplicated in an American city, it would produce complete annihilation within a radius of three miles, moderate damage out to seven miles, and light damage as far as 10 miles.

The films also gave some idea of the size of the hydrogen device itself, pointing up the difficulty of compressing it into a deliverable H-bomb.

Transparent tape is a sewing aid. If pattern instructions call for slashing the material when you insert a pocket or put in a raglan-type sleeve, tape the area to be slashed. Cut through the tape, stitch, then remove. This way, the fabrics won't fray.

Protect delicate curtains in a washing machine by basting them into muslin bags.

To lighten piano keys, wipe them with a cloth dampened with milk.

Dust hangs upward, so when you clean walls, brush with an upward motion to prevent smearing and streaking.

Lipstick or rouge stains on clothing can be removed by softening them first with glycerine then washing in hot soapsuds.

If you like an oiled dust mop, dampen the mop with a mixture of three parts kerosene and one part paraffin oil. Let the mop stand at least 24 hours before using so the oil will penetrate and won't affect floor finishes.

Summerfield Asks For Commission to Fix Postal Rates

WASHINGTON — Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield has proposed that Congress surrender its right to fix mail rates as a step toward getting the post office out of the red.

He outlined at a news conference Wednesday a plan to put the department on a pay-as-you-go basis. The chief point would be creation of an independent commission empowered to adjust postal rates to meet changing costs.

Summerfield embodied his recommendations in a 350-page report. He sent copies to the House and Senate.

He also announced that postal rates on newspapers, magazines and other second class mail matter will go up another 10 per cent today. It is the last of three automatic 10 per cent hikes authorized by Congress in 1951.

Kankakee is Largest City in State With No '53 Traffic Deaths

SPRINGFIELD — Kankakee was the largest city in Illinois to list no traffic fatalities in 1953, a Division of Highways report showed today.

Forty-five cities over 5,000 in population had no vehicle deaths during the year, compared to 49 such cities in 1952. Sterling, Pontiac, Morris and Salem had no traffic deaths for the third consecutive year.

Among the larger cities, deaths dropped in Chicago, 473 to 438; East St. Louis, 26 to 15; Springfield, from 9 to 6; and increased in Rockford, 7 to 14; and Peoria from 7 to 13.

Colorado Governor Blames High Price Supports for Dust Bowl Damages

DENVER, Colo. — The elements have turned four million acres of Colorado and New Mexico wheatfields into a veritable wasteland, but farmers, politicians and conservationists still disagree on what should be done.

Colorado's Gov. Dan Thornton blames the whole thing on price supports on wheat and poor conservation practices by farmers in the Dust Bowl region.

The governor has criticized the plowing up of grassland which he contends never should have been tilled. High price supports, he said, are the incentive for farmers to raise wheat on unsuitable land.

But many farmers in the Dust Bowl area look at their dusty fields and say they will put in a new crop of wheat as soon as they can. They maintain they still can make money on wheat—or on the crop insurance in case they lose it.

Some are suffering but some are not. Dale Callahan, a Walsh farm-wheatfield owner, said he has had seven good years, "so I'm not hurting any."

But he said conservation practices recommended by many experts would cost him $1 an acre if he chose to use them.

Says Acreage Should Be Cut One of Callahan's neighbors, Mrs. Beattie Callender, said she has been unable to harvest a crop for the past three years, and cannot undertake conservation measures without a state or federal loan.

Thornton, in a report prepared for Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson, said that "as long as prices on wheat are so high, they are certain to induce farmers to plow up the land." He contended that acreage should be cut.

Price supports must be diversified, he said, and emergency aid should be on a loan basis. But many farmers don't want either price supports or crop insurance to be discontinued.

Colorado has put up a million-dollar fund to finance forced conservation practices in the Dust Bowl. All of it is to be paid back by the farmers in the form of taxes, if necessary.

New Mexico has put up $200,000 on a loan basis for its devastated northeastern area.

Driving winds have taken the plowed fields and stripped the valuable topsoil right down to hardpan, leaving only clumps of tumbleweed. The topsoil can be found easily—it covers all adjoining fences and blankets hundreds of thousands of acres of rich grassland under a sea of dust.

Lehr, a foundry worker, was pinned in the vehicle last Friday night when it plunged down an embankment and overturned on U. S. 460 about three miles east of Freeburg.

He was released by a farmer who found him Saturday morning.

Singer Lila Leeds Is Again Arrested

CHICAGO — Singer Lila Leeds, a registered narcotics addict once arrested with actor Robert Mitchum, was picked up by police Wednesday night.

Her two sons, 2 and 4 years old, were taken to St. Vincent's Orphanage. She was arrested in the company of two men. Police held her on an open charge.

Her husband is now in an Illinois penitentiary. Miss Leeds was recently seized, and then released, while making a visit to him.

She is registered as an addict under an Illinois law requiring such registration, police said.

Eisenhower Accepts Invitation to Speak At State Fair Aug. 19

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower today accepted an invitation to speak Aug. 19 at the Illinois State Fair, Springfield, in connection with the special day set aside for observance of the Republican Party centennial.

Because of the occasion, the Springfield speech probably will be a major political address.

On June 22, Mr. Eisenhower will speak informally and briefly to a dinner meeting of the National Editorial Assn. here.

Citronella is a giant grass grown in Ceylon and southeastern Asia.

House Committee Votes $363.3 Million Funds For Interior Department

By United Press

The House Appropriations committee today voted $363,360,989 to run the Interior Department in the fiscal year starting July 1.

This was $58,757,441 less than President Eisenhower asked and $71,270,061 less than Congress voted last year for the department which handles reclamation, Indian affairs, public lands, territories, and federal power distribution.

In knocking 14 per cent off the President's request, the committee conceded that "much larger sums" could be spent "profitably for the development and conservation of our natural resources."

But it added that the lower sums voted by the committee are "dictated in large measure by the urgent need for conserving dollars to improve the present federal government fiscal position."

Other congressional news:

Doctors: The Senate Armed Services committee approved legislation to help the armed forces handle medical personnel who turn out to be security risks. Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson had recommended that the military be permitted to discharge any drafted doctor found to be a security risk. The proposed legislation would give that permission.

Welfare: Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, secretary of health, education, and welfare, asked congressional approval of President Eisenhower's proposal to liberalize social security and extend coverage to some 10 million additional persons. She told the House Ways and Means committee the proposal is "an important and constructive step for the promotion of the general welfare of our citizens."

Sabotage: Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. asked Congress to amplify present anti-sabotage laws to give the armed services legal protection against sabotage "by radioactive, biological, or chemical agents." He recommended that the present temporary law against saboteurs be made permanent and applicable in times of national emergency as well as in times of actual war.

Health: Nelson H. Cruikshank of the AFL said the President's proposed federal health re-insurance program would fail to meet the need. He told the House Commerce committee a direct subsidy to voluntary health insurance plans would be a better way to extend coverage to those who are now ineligible or can't afford it.

Statehood: The Senate drove toward final action, expected before nightfall, on the Alaska-Hawaii statehood bill.

Blame Suddenness, Panic for Fire Toll of 10 Students

BUFFALO, N. Y. — Survivors of the Cheektowaga School fire said today the suddenness of the blaze and panic apparently accounted for the grim toll of 10 dead and 25 injured.

The bodies of the dead students, burned beyond recognition, were all found near windows and doors. One surviving teacher said the children who ran toward the door got the worst of the flames. Many escaped through windows.

June M. Mahany, 20, a student teacher, described the holocaust as a "horrible 30 seconds nightmare." She said she was about to play the piano for a music class when she heard a loud noise and smoke and flames poured through the door leading into the corridor.

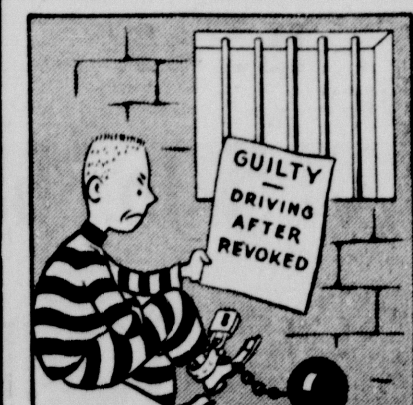

All of the victims were 10 and 11 year old students of the sixth grade. Ten of the injured were listed today as "critical."

Tips on Traffic Safety

By CHARLES F. CARPENTIER Secretary of State

Revocation or suspension of a driver license is a serious matter, and the law provides severe penalties for anyone convicted of driving after his license is revoked or suspended.

The basic purpose of the new Drivers License Act is to protect the great majority of drivers from the few who are a constant menace on the streets and highways. Once a person's license has been revoked or suspended because of a consistent bad record of traffic law violations or because of conviction by a court on a charge which requires that action, he is taking a long chance of spending a considerable amount of time in jail if he continues to drive.

The law provides for a minimum of seven days in jail for anyone convicted of driving while his license is revoked or suspended. It may be as much as a year. In addition, he may be fined as much as $1,000.

These may seem like stiff penalties, but traffic safety experts are convinced that they must be in order to show reckless drivers they are not going to be permitted to endanger lives indefinitely.

Harrisburg Commandery Holds Potluck Supper

Members of Harrisburg Commandery No. 89 and their families gathered last night at the Masonic temple dining room for a potluck supper.

Following the meal, Lt. Col. John M. McAfoos, of Benton, showed numerous colored slides of Korea and told the group of many native customs. He also related several of his experiences while serving in that area.

Klein, Elbert Criticize Stassen Amid Campaigning by Nine Candidates

CHICAGO (AP)—Julius Klein and Edgar M. Elbert criticized Harold E. Stassen in the nine-man race for the Republican senatorial nomination.

Klein said in a statement that the proposal to increase non-strategic trade with Russia would hurt American interests.

"We wouldn't deal with gangsters at home so why should we deal with them abroad," Klein said. "If we send them non-military supplies, what is there to prevent the Reds from trading them to other countries for war munitions?"

Elbert demanded that Stassen "be ousted immediately." He called the policy of non-strategic trade with Russia "a betrayal of America."

Wyman Praises Trade Program

Joseph T. Meek charged in a Virginia, Ill., address that "insolent, impudent and impeding actions of thousands of New Deal holdovers" are hurting the Eisenhower administration.

Meek's headquarters said that 30 GOP state senators who are supporting him will meet in Chicago Monday for final campaign plans.

Alderman Herbert F. Geisler of Chicago, who also is seeking the nomination, said in a television talk at Springfield that Meek's changes against Democratic Senator Paul H. Douglas "would be pitiful to behold." Geisler said that Meek has been a paid lobbyist for an association of retail businessmen for 20 years.

Austin L. Wyman said that President Eisenhower's foreign trade program, based on the report of the commission headed by Clarence Randall, promises "an era of Republican prosperity based on expanded foreign trade, new investments abroad, and the substitution of trade for expensive aid which will help balance the national budget."

Hayes Hits Foreign Goods

Park Livingston opened his downstate campaign headquarters at Champaign. He said, "I am the only candidate . . . who has on two occasions been reelected with record vote totals . . . as both president and a member of the University of Illinois Board of Trustees."

Edward A. Hayes criticized the increased flow of foreign goods into the United States. He said that 336,000 bicycles were imported the first nine months of 1953 compared with a total of 14,000 from 1933 to 1949.

John B. Crane gave his support to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' warning of more American aid in Indochina. Crane also said that he approves larger income tax exemptions for children.

Mrs. Ethel Serles, 58, widow of Lloyd Serles, died suddenly Wednesday afternoon as a result of a heart attack at her home in Corinth township in Williamson county.

She is survived by the following children: Mrs. Aline Somers, Chicago; Mrs. Pauline Roper, Chicago; Mrs. Grace Hearn, Leland, Ill.; Mrs. Florence Krieser, Amboy, Ill.; Mrs. Marjorie Murphy, Johnston City, and Mrs. Leva Miller, Chicago; her father, Willis Hayes, Thompsonville, and stepmother, Mrs. Mary Frances Hayes; a sister, Mrs. Sula Parker, Herrin; four half sisters, Rev. Ruth Hayes, West Frankfort, Mrs. Nova Hayes, West Frankfort, Mrs. Jessie Clark, West Frankfort, and Mrs. Dortha Midvett, Metropolis; and four half brothers, Edgar Hayes, Thompsonville, Charles Hayes, Thompsonville, Jack Hayes, Thompsonville, and Elmer Hayes, Pittsburg, Ill.

The body now lies in state at the Courtney funeral home in Galatia and funeral plans are pending.

State Department Rejects Soviet Bid to Join NATO; Officials Ridicule Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP)—American officials heaped ridicule on Russia's bid to join the North Atlantic Pact today and predicted the Allies will turn it down cold.

The State Department informally rejected the surprise proposal Wednesday night, calling it a trick to "undermine" Western unity and security. Authorities expect the United States, Britain and France to agree quickly on a formal turn-down.

Moscow pulled its rabbit out of the hat Wednesday when it suggested in notes to the Big Three that a Europe-wide security pact be set up—with America as a member—and that Russia join the NATO alliance.

Officials Sarcastic

U. S. diplomats viewed the proposal as a bold move to strengthen the hand of powerful, anti-American groups in Europe—particularly in France and Italy—and in this way help undercut the effort to create a European army with Germany.

"The present proposal of the Soviet Union inspires no confidence in face of the continued iron grip of the Soviet Union on its captive peoples," the State Department spokesman said in a formal statement. "It is a maneuver to gain admittance within the walls of the West to undermine its security."

Other officials were sarcastic. "Maybe they will follow this up with an offer to join the National Security Council and the Central Intelligence Agency," said one.

The State Department spokesman said his statement represented an "American rejection" of the plan. Nevertheless, the United States intends to meet soon with troverly," Sears said.

But he said he "objected violently" to use of Harvard Law School fellowship funds for two students who had invoked the Fifth Amendment in response to questions about communistic affiliations before the Senate Committee on Internal Security.

Under New Attack

Sears said there had been one earlier dispute—this one "in about 195"—between him and the Harvard law dean.

"I objected to the National Lawyers Guild having a branch in the Harvard Law School," he said.

Harvard has been one of McCarthy's frequent targets.

McCarthy was under attack from a new quarter. Rep. Robert W. Kean (R-N.J.) said McCarthy "has done more harm than good" and urged the Senate to curtail his investigation tactics.

"The activities of Senator McCarthy to which many people object can be curbed if the Senate adopts proper rules for the work of its committees," Kean said in a newsletter to his constituents. "Certainly there should be no one-man investigating committees."

State to Again Collect Fees in Seven Illinois Parks

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Seven Illinois state parks will resume collection of admission fees April 16.

State Conservation Director Glen Palmer announced today.

Fee collections, authorized by the 1953 Legislature, were halted near the season end last Oct. 4.

Palmer said they will begin again April 16 at Starved Rock, Illinois Beach, Pere Marquette, Grand Marais, White Pines, Mississippi Palisades and Matthiesen state parks.

The fees are 10 cents for each car and 10 cents for each person over 12 years old.

Collections in the last six months of 1953 totaled $45,372. After payment of collection costs, $32,427 was placed in a special park improvement fund along with commissions from park concessions.

The department will not collect fees from motorists using the public highway through Grand Marais. Palmer said fees will be collected only at gates in three definite areas of the park.

Overnight guests at park lodges or cabins will receive guest cards so they don't have to pay each time they leave and return during a single visit.

Rabies Vaccination At Carrier Mills Saturday Afternoon

There will be a rabies vaccination at the Carrier Mills city hall Saturday from 1 to 4 p. m.

The Illinois Rabies law that was passed by the last session of the State Legislature requires that all dogs that are not kept confined or on a leash at all times must be vaccinated against rabies not later than June 1, 1954.

Rabies clinics are being held in the majority of the counties and most of the reports are that dog owners are responding to the new law.

The fee for the vaccination at Carrier Mills will be one dollar and fifty cents. This includes tag and certificate of vaccination.

Two Brothers Are Killed by Train

ASHMORE, Ill. (AP)—Two elderly brothers were killed Wednesday when their car was struck at a crossing by a crack New York Central passenger train.

Luther M. and John N. Nelson, both about 70, retired farmers living at Oakland, were coming here to attend a funeral. The westbound streamliner "The Missourian," which makes no stops between Terre Haute, Ind., and Mattoon, Ill., hit the car.

Justice Dep't in Anti-Trust Probe Of Auto Industry

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department is conducting anti-trust investigations into various aspects of the automobile industry, it was learned today.

Informed sources said at least two preliminary inquiries have been undertaken by experts in the department's anti-trust division in an effort to determine whether certain industry practices constitute violations of the nation's anti-trust laws.

At the same time, it was learned the Federal Trade Commission is checking up on the relationship between General Motors and its dealers to make sure a 1941 FTC order against certain "exclusive dealing" arrangements is being enforced.

The Justice Department had an official "no comment" on these reports and officials declined to be specific about the industry practices under investigation. But it was considered likely that dealer arrangements were involved in the anti-trust inquiry.

New Indian Pictures Carved in Stone Found in Fountain Bluff Area

CARBONDALE, Ill. — A new group of unreported Indian petroglyphs (pictures carved in stone) have been found on the west side of Fountain Bluff in Jackson county by Irvin M. Peitthman, of the Southern Illinois university museum staff.

Peitthman, museum curator of archaeology, came upon the weathered picture carvings on the wall of a shallow rock shelter a few hundred yards north of the Fountain Bluff spring south of Gorham while on a week-end hike along the foot of the 200-foot sandstone cliffs overlooking the flat Mississippi River plain.

Weathering has made many of the figures impossible to decipher, but a large group still discernable in the rock shelter and on large boulders nearby follow the consistent pattern of other groups of petroglyphs in southern Illinois. Included in the new Fountain Bluff group are figures of birds, animals, and human beings. Several birds may be noted, including what appears to be a large eagle in flight with outstretched talons. The animal group includes a well-defined deer.

No Definite Interpretation
Symbols on the shelter wall include the characteristic "weeping eye," the equal-arm cross in a circle, the sun symbol, the thunderbird, and the human hand. Such carvings apparently are artistic expressions of scenes in the life of the prehistoric inhabitants of the area and the symbols are an expression of their mythology or religion.

However, no definite interpretation of the petroglyphs has been made for southern Illinois. Generally, some of the designs and symbols, such as the "weeping eye" and the cross in a circle, are placed in the Mississippian culture and traditions belonging to a people who disappeared before the white man came to the area, Peitthman says.

Jackson county claims the greatest concentration of such Indian art carvings in southern Illinois. The largest collection yet discovered in the area also is on the west face of Fountain Bluff near its southern end north of Grand Tower. Peter's cave, a rock shelter near Kincaid Creek, once contained large rock slabs on which were carved several petroglyphs, but most have been removed and only the figure of a bird remains. The site was excavated during a summer field session of the SIU Museum in 1951.

Two other petroglyph sites are in Jackson county. One is at Turkey Track Rock in Austin Hollow a half mile north of the intersection of highways 151 and 3, and the other is northeast of Ava a few miles down the bed of Rock Creek. The carvings at these sites have been badly defaced by visitors attempting to obtain some of the figures and symbols as souvenirs.

Pictographs About Gone
Many other sites have been reported at various places in southern Illinois. Similar petroglyphs have been found in nearby Missouri and Kentucky. They usually are found on sandstone outcroppings, on rocky hillsides, in rock shelters, and on large slabs of stone in creek beds.

Pictographs, another form of the area's prehistoric Indian art, have mostly disappeared because of weathering. The first reference to such pictographs in the area were the Piasa birds reported by Father Marquette on the 80-foot river bluff near the present city of Alton. The picture was blasted away years ago but a replica has been painted in its place. Few remain in protected rock shelters in the area. The "buffalo picture" is one found in Johnson county.

Pictographs were monochromatic pictures intended to express ideas. They were usually colored a faded brown to red by using a mixture of powdered iron oxide and red or yellow ochre mixed with animal grease which penetrated the stone and preserved the design.

Golden needles were used by Egyptian surgeon-priests to close wounds.

REV. GEORGE KENNEDY, missionary to India, is shown with the leopard he killed at Kanpur, India. He is a nephew of Mrs. Claude L. Rew of this city.

Rev. George Kennedy Shools Panther In School for Girls at Kanpur, India

Mrs. Claude L. Rew, 412 South Main street, has received a letter from the wife of her nephew, Rev. George Kennedy, who have both been missionaries in India for the past five years, telling of an exciting incident in which her husband, George, had shot and killed a panther.

The Kennedys and their two children, Johnnie and Linda, live in Kanpur, India, on the same compound with their mission school, and on the other side of the fence around their mission is a private Indian school for girls.

Mrs. Kennedy stated that one morning around 6 o'clock a man woke her husband with the cry

Attorney Don Scott Named Local Agent for Title and Trust Co.

Atty. Don Scott today announced that he had been appointed local agent for the Chicago Title and Trust Co., which issues title guarantee policies which insure the title of real estate.

This company, Scott said, issues owner's policies, and mortgage or lender's policies. Atty. Scott, besides his law practice, has for the past 15 years operated the Don Scott Abstract and Title Co., which prepares abstracts of title in Saline county.

When the U. S. Military Academy at West Point opened in 1802, it had a total enrollment of 12 cadets.

that there was a panther in the private Indian school. Of course they laughed at the possibility of such a thing in a big metropolitan city like Kanpur, (population of 750,000) but Mr. Kennedy, thinking that it might be a wolf or hyena, dressed quickly and grabbed his gun.

Sure enough a wild animal had gotten into a storeroom for blackboards. The men tried to scare out the animal with noises and sticks, but to no avail. They then decided to call the fire department to drive the panther out with water, but then there was a ferocious noise that could be nothing but the angry snarl of a panther. Until then none believed it could be such a thing.

A few minutes later it bounded out, and with everyone standing around watching, Mr. Kennedy shot it with one shot through the head when it was only six feet from him. It turned a somersault and lay still.

Just ten minutes later the children and teachers started coming to school. Rev. Kennedy was a big hero. The secretary of the school board came to thank him and he received a letter from the school president thanking him for rescuing them from their peril at great personal risk to himself.

The news spread rapidly over Kanpur and there were no less than 2000 people came that morning to look at the animal—schools brought their classes, "big shots" came in limousines, tongas and rickshaws brought more folks, many came on cycles and hundreds came on foot—all to see a thing which was absolutely unheard of before in the big city.

She added that it was still hard to believe that anything could be so exciting as shooting a panther almost on your back doorstep.

The Kennedys are planning to sail from Bombay, India, about April 12 for their first furlough to the U. S. in the five years they have been in India.

They are missionaries from the Methodist Church mission board.

EVANGELIST for revival services at the First Baptist church in Carrier Mills will be Rev. O. C. Cooper (above). Services will be held daily at 7:30 p. m. from April 5 to 16. Earl Hicks of Harrisburg will be the song leader.

GUEST SPEAKERS FOR STATE W. M. U. MEETING—Miss Helen Ige, Richmond, Calif., missionary to the Japanese in California, and Jemrola Adeleke Cleke Ojo of Abeokuta, Nigeria, Africa, will be among the speakers at the state Women's Missionary Union meeting being held today and tomorrow at the McKinley Avenue Baptist church. Miss Ige will speak Friday morning, using as her subject, "On the Rolling Tide." That evening she will take part in a panel discussion, and Mr. Ojo, a student at Wayland College, Southern Baptist school at Plainview, Texas, will speak on "Proclaiming Jesus in Nigeria."

Tonight there will be a supper for Royal Ambassador counselors, and Rev. Walter Nunn of Gadsden, Ala., former R. A. worker in Illinois, will be the speaker. He will also speak at the service tonight at 7:30, which will be young people's session. Speaker for the Friday afternoon meeting will be Dr. Noel M. Taylor of Carbondale, executive secretary of Illinois Baptist State association, whose subject will be, "Proclaiming Jesus in Illinois."

11,938 Acres

Burned by Forest Fires in March

BENTON, Ill. — Ninety-two forest fires caused damage estimated at $77,168 to 11,938 acres of forest and non-forestland in southern Illinois during March, southern Illinois forestry headquarters here said today.

Forest land burned totaled 9,161 acres worth of $72,872 and non-forest loss was 2,777 acres worth $4,296.

Martin Anderson, district forester, said incendiary causes started 34 fires—mostly in river bottoms on absentee-owned land—and destroyed 6,349 acres of forest and 64 acres of non-forest land.

The breakdown of fires shows debris burning caused 45 fires which damaged 1,993 acres of forest and 2,590 acres of non-forest land.

Other fire causes, acreage of forest and non-forest land burned were:

Railroads—3, 82, 20; campers—3, 181, 60; smokers—1, —, 40; lumbering—none; miscellaneous—6, 556, 3.

There were nine fires which burned 300 acres or more and also nine blazes which burned between 100 and 300 acres. Forty-eight fires burned from 10 to 100 acres and 26 fires were confined to 1/4 to 10 acres in size.

AMA Says Noise Needs to Be Studied

CHICAGO (UP)—The American Medical Association says more should be known about noise.

An editorial in the AMA Journal said that "in view of the problems related to modern industry such a study is now in order."

Some of the relationships between noise and health have been examined. The editorial said, for instance, discontinuous loud mechanical noise and sleep music have been found to be more disturbing than continuous loud noise.

In small groups of persons, exposure to noise for several hours may cause uneasiness, headache, tremors, nausea, tenseness or insomnia, the article said.

But a general understanding of the effects of noise on health has not yet been made.

"There are many reports claiming that noise adversely affects public health," the article said, "but the possible relationship between noise and health needs further study."

When Old Main building at Southern Illinois University burned in 1883, its library of more than 8000 volumes was saved.—(SIU)

Harmony Reigns at Congressional Club Where Legislators' Wives Go to School

By PATTI SIMMONS
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON—(NEA)—There's complete Republican and Democratic harmony in Washington—if you know where to look for it. The place is the Congressional Club.

It doesn't matter whose husbands bicker on the "hill." Here the partisan ladies bury their political hairpins and get downright clubby.

Currently, a bunch of legislative spouses are as pleased as high school freshmen. Together they're learning to turn out newspaper stories, to speech-make in public, bid a clever bridge hand, even how to parlezvous in French embassy lingo.

The classes are a part of the club's program, as are the parties and receptions attended by the Democratic and Republican ladies. Even with elections coming up, the Congressional Club school bell tolls recently for around 100 enthusiastic students.

Why would a congressman's wife want to tackle journalism?

Kroger to Offer 95 Scholarships to High School Grads

Ninety-five scholarships will be awarded to outstanding high school graduates under the Kroger Scholarship Plan for 1954. It has been announced by Joseph B. Hall, Kroger president.

The $200 one-year awards are available at land-grant colleges in 17 midwestern and southern states in which Kroger operates, as well as in California and Florida where the company's produce procurement offices are located. They are divided between students planning to major in home economics and those who will specialize in agriculture.

The retail food firm's scholarship program was begun in 1938 at Ohio State university, and has expanded through the years until 22 colleges are now included. Lincoln university, Jefferson City, Mo., was added this year.

"We believe the program is an investment in America's future," Mr. Hall said. He pointed out that hundreds of young men and women who entered college under the plan have now completed their education and are making valuable contributions to the progress of their communities.

Any graduate of an accredited high school is eligible for the scholarships. Applications and information on the program may be obtained from the deans of the college of agriculture, or through county agents, home demonstration agents, home economics teachers, or vocational agriculture instructors.

Selection of winners will be made by the college scholarship committee at each school. Awards will be made on the basis of scholastic achievements in high school as well as leadership qualities demonstrated in school, church, 4-H clubs, Future Farmers of America, Future Homemakers of America, or similar organizations.

Hardly Worth Trouble

BOSTON (U.P.)—What chance does a prison escapee stand of staying free?

Not much, according to Massachusetts records.

Only two of the 34 convicts who escaped from Massachusetts State Prison during the past 35 years remained at large.

And every one of the more than 300 who have escaped from Concord Reformatory since 1878 have been recaptured.

taught a gym class.

An up-to-date trend? On the contrary, in checking back through club history it was discovered that around 1915 congressional wives also turned out for gym.

Incorporated by an Act of Congress in 1908, the club boasts among its honorary life members Mamie Eisenhower, Mrs. Richard Nixon, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge. Besides congressional wives, membership is open to congresswomen; also to Cabinet and Supreme Court spouses. Daughters and daughters-in-law can be associate members.

Some of the ladies who are taking newspaper writing with former Washington columnist and reporter Elizabeth Oldfield may soon be sending feature stories to their home paper. The workshop includes straight news writing for those "journalists" who want to explain to the folks back home just how a bill in Congress is going to affect them.

For some of the ladies writing isn't new. The wife of Rep. LeRoy Johnson (R-Calif.) has done a column for a California paper. The wife of Rep. John Taber (R-N.Y.) has had experience turning out material for a Republican Women's newsletter. Class chairman Mrs. Karl LeCompte is a charter member of the Iowa Women's Press Club and used to write a cooking column.

Although public speaking is popular it's not because the congressional spouses intend to start competing with their husbands.

"We all feel we need a little more self-confidence," is the way Mrs. Adair explains it.

Teacher Mrs. Hester Provensen stresses the kind of speaking a legislator's wife might be expected to do, such as short presentation and acceptance remarks. Then when Mrs. Congressman attends that next meeting she'll be all set—even if handed an unexpected bunch of flowers.

Toward the end of the course, the ladies all chip in for a luncheon at which each of them makes a little speech. The wife of Rep. Edward Miller (D-Md.), who is taking the class for the second time, remembers this well.

"I felt like I was buying a ticket to my own funeral," she smiles.

IT HAPPENED IN SOUTHERN ILLINOIS:

Whipping Posts

By JOHN W. ALLEN
Southern Illinois University
"Thirty lashes on the bare back, well laid on" sounds rather severe, and it was. These words in old court records of Southern Illinois indicate the punishment of convicted criminals.

In addition to the lashes the violator sometimes received additional punishment in the stocks or in the pillory.

The whipping post was simply a tall sturdy one, high enough to allow the wrists of the standing victim to be raised above his head and the cord binding them fastened at the top of the post.

Stocks were made of heavy boards having notches in their adjoining edges, into which the extended wrists and ankles of the seated victim were fastened. Thus seated, the person being punished was uncomfortable and helpless, sometimes being treated to indignities by the passersby.

Severe Punishment

Confinement in the pillory was considered very severe, since the law would allow no more than three hours of such. The pillory was made of two boards with three notches, in their adjoining sides. The center notch was large enough to fit around the neck of the victim while the smaller notches, one on either side of the larger one, would close about his wrists. The height of the openings forced the victim to stand in a stooped position.

Some of the early laws and punishments visited upon their violators may be of interest. Murder, defined as killing with malice aforethought, was punishable by death, and the person on trial was either found guilty and hanged or went free.

Anyone committing forgery was required to repay the damaged person and to stand in the pillory for not more than three hours. Larceny or theft of personal property required the one convicted to return the value of the goods stolen and to receive not more than 31 stripes on his bare back.

Lashes for Burglary

Burglary was punishable by 39 lashes. The offender was also required to furnish bond guaranteeing good behavior for three years. If he violated this bond, he was required to restore three times the value of the goods stolen, one part to the state and two to the person from whom theft was made.

Rioting, a disturbance in which three or more persons joined to create disorder, was punishable by 39 lashes plus a fine.

A disobedient child or servant could be taken before two justices of the peace. If convicted the violator was confined in the county jail until he "humbled himself in a manner satisfactory to the parent or master." Should the child or servant assault the master, the two justices could sentence him to receive 10 lashes on the bare back.

A Negro or mulatto 10 miles from home without special permission received 10 lashes. A like punishment was due if he entered upon the property of anyone, other than his master, without specific permission.

Fixed Height of Fences

Men between 16 and 60 were required to serve in the militia and to meet regularly each week for two hours of drill. The militiaman provided his own rifle, bullet mould, a pound of powder, four pounds of lead, a priming wire, a gun brush, six flints, a powder horn, and a bullet pouch.

The height of fences was fixed by law. Northwest Territory statutes required fences four feet six inches in height and those of Illinois Territory called for fences five feet six inches high. The width of cracks between pickets or palings and between the rails in a rail fence was fixed.

In considering early laws and penalties it must be remembered that the conditions were very different from the present. Jails and prison facilities were limited. It was thus easier to dispose of the culprit with "30 lashes on the bare back well laid on" or "three hours in the pillory" and then turn him loose. Space was thus made available for the next violator.

Uriah Belford, 96, Has Memories of Many Bygone Years

One of the county's oldest residents, Uriah Belford, observed his 96th birthday amidst memories of many bygone years early this month. Uriah, who now lives at the Good Shepherd Nursing home at Galatia, was born March 5, 1858, in Elizabethtown.

Belford, the son of James and Sarah Belford, both now deceased, has been farmer, mechanic, engineer, machinist, businessman, architect, millwright and inventor during a busy lifetime. He retired from active farming at the age of 83.

During his early life, Belford was a coffinmaker as well as farmer and mechanic. At the age of 14, he constructed a hand-operated bean huller, and still later in his teens became a railroad worker. At one time he served Pope county as a county commissioner.

He was married to Mary Jane

Jennings in 1881, and after her death early in their married life, he wed Sarah Shelby on Dec. 12, 1888. His second wife also preceded him in death, having passed away Dec. 2, 1938.

Uriah's mother lived to be 101 years old, passing away Jan. 24, 1931.

One-Fourth Our Food Is Fruit and Vegetables

CHICAGO (U.P.)—American families consume $7,500,000,000 worth of fresh fruits and vegetables each year, the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association estimates. The Association, founded in 1904, says that fruits and vegetables make up—one-fourth of all the food consumed in the United States.

Expert Gives Six Basic Reasons For Marriage Failures

PHILADELPHIA — A husband's ever-present newspaper at the breakfast table and the wife's nylon stockings drying in the bathroom are only surface reasons why marriages fail, one authority says. These are just outer symptoms masking a deeper maladjustment, says Dr. Emily H. Mudd, executive director of the Marriage Council of Philadelphia, an affiliate of the University of Pennsylvania.

1. Over-dependence on parents.
2. Failure to grow up to a reasonable independence.
3. Inability to give as well as take.
4. Failure to recognize the partner's needs and accept the partner's feelings.
5. Inability to talk things over to communicate with the partner.
6. "Major" differences in attitudes toward religion, children, finances, sex and jobs. Dr. Mudd, president of the American Association of Marriage Counselors, started the Council in 1933, holding sessions one night a week in a doctor's borrowed office. "We wanted to find out if there was a real need for a marriage counseling service in the community," she explained. It didn't take long to get the answer. In 1953, the council conducted 3,153 interviews. A small fee normally is charged, although in cases of financial need, this is waived. Try To Prevent Divorce The Council regards itself as a preventive agency, helping couples think through their problems carefully before they go to the divorce courts. Lawyers and judges frequently refer couples seeking a divorce in hasty anger to the organization. Dr. Mudd, married since 1922, says that in most cases the woman takes the first step to salvage the marriage. "The majority of women in this country make marriage their major job," Dr. Mudd said, "and they have the greater stake in keeping out of the divorce courts." While the Council extends a helping hand to couples regardless of race, creed or color, Dr. Mudd found that the average person coming to the organization was under 30. Dr. Mudd explained why. "Young people are more elastic, and have a more optimistic look toward their problems." Free public schools were established in New Haven, Conn., 1642. The Daily Register 25c a w

A Message to the Republican Voters of Saline County

Laymon Jones

Republican Candidate

For SHERIFF

Primary Election Tuesday, April 13th

In order to identify myself to the voters of Saline county who are not acquainted with me I wish to state the following:

I am a life long resident of Saline county having resided in Eldorado Township my entire life, except the 38 months which I served with the United States navy during World War II. I attended the grade and high schools of Eldorado where I graduated in 1938. After graduation from high school I entered the employ of the American Bakery of Eldorado as a route salesman of their bakery products and have continuously been in their employ, except for the period of time I was in service.

In 1942 I married Aileen Tolbert of Carrier Mills, the daughter of the late Esco and Nora Tolbert. We have one son eight years of age.

My family and I attend the First Baptist Church in Eldorado regularly. I am a member of the Eldorado Lodge No. 730, A. F. & A. M., I.O.O.F. lodge No. 375, and have always supported all civic projects for the betterment of the community in which I reside.

I feel that my background of business experience and war service together with my wide knowledge of the problems of Saline County qualifies me for this important office of Sheriff.

I sincerely promise the citizens of Saline County if you nominate and elect me your Sheriff that I will faithfully discharge the duties of the office fairly and impartially and maintain strict law enforcement.

Any consideration that you may give my candidacy by your influence and vote will be sincerely appreciated.

Sincerely,
Laymon Jones

THE STORY: An extortion plot led to the murder of Police Chief Otto Drover in Colorado City just after the wedding of Lieut. Mark Richards, at which Private Detective Jim Dunn was best man. Investigating an abandoned filling station on a lonely road, Mark and Jim discovered the body of Edward Stone, Jr., son of Mayor Stone. Young Eddie, mentally immature, had written a confession to the murder of Chief Drover. "He told me how," the note said, indicating another person was involved.

XI

Dr. Frank Pardon swabbed his hands with a bit of gauze saturated with alcohol. "All I can do here. Take him away when you have the pictures." He kept on rubbing his hands and the clean smell of the alcohol cut through the old oily odors of the filling station. Pardon flung the gauze away at last.

"What killed him?" Mark demanded. The filling station was brightly lit now, with headlights and spotlights from several cars focused carefully.

"Marked cyanosis," Pardon said. "Cyanide in some form, I'd say. He drank it. The glass was used."

"With strawberry soda pop?" Dunn asked.

Pardon nodded.

"Did you find a cut on his right forearm?" Jim asked.

"Yes. Long, shallow cut."

Mark said slowly, "Get his blood type. We'll want it when we get a report from the Denver lab."

Pardon got his shoulders straight, walked across the plank bridge. Mark and Jim walked with him to the station driveway, stayed there until the body had been taken away.

Car lights clustered at the beginning of North Hill Road, were moved aside to permit passage of the ambulance. Flashlights dotted the hillside as a line of men moved in a slow search.

"Let's sit in my car," Richards said heavily. "We'll take a look at the package we found."

"The note," Jim said. "You noticed?"

Richards nodded. "Written with a ball point pen. Or printed with one, to be exact."

"And only a pencil on the table," Jim reminded.

"No pen in Eddie Stone's pockets," Mark went on. "That means we'll have to check on whether or not Eddie actually wrote it."

Jim and Mark sat together on the car's front seat, lit cigarettes. An officer came up to report no one had used the steep road down to the highway. Not, at least, since the radio car had been in position.

"All right," Mark said. "Keep your eyes open. Later, when those men going over the ground get through, you bring down to headquarters anything they've found."

"Yes, sir." The officer started to turn, then asked, "Anything special we're looking for?"

"A ball point pen," Mark suggested. "Or maybe a weapon. Like an ice pick. Anything that looks as if it doesn't belong on this hillside I want brought down to headquarters."

Richards waited until the officer was gone. "Not that I think it'll do any good." His fingers, pulled at scotch tape around the small flat package. Newspaper rustled. "A pay-off at that," Mark said.

"Why pay off a dead man?" Mark Richards finished counting. "Hundred and sixty dollars."

"It fits better with that kid—with Eddie Stone than the four thousand from Atwood."

Another officer came up to report. "Nothing on the hillside, Lieutenant. Nothing yet. And the radio car boys at the block down at the entrance said to tell you they picked up the car that turned out of North Hill Road."

"Who?" Richards demanded.

"Carl Hardin. The real estate man. They're holding him and he's sore as a boil."

"Carl Hardin," Jim said. "Again. Remember? Old Atwood said he thought he saw Hardin leave the drive when Atwood came to make his own pay-off."

"Let him boil," Mark said. "I'll want him later, at headquarters. Get two other men who have finished their assignment, bring them back here. You're going to stick around the rest of the night."

The tall, narrow house was huge in the moonlight. Small clouds sailing past overhead gave motion to the tower which jutted up from the third story, gave it the appearance of leaning forward, ready for a crushing tumble.

A bright porch light shone in the reflection from the polished brass of the three doorknobs. The porch was wide, but not deep, and the row of three doors appeared to elbow each other for enough room for panels to separate them and support the three bells, each with its neat card.

Gaylord Mansfield Edward Stone T. W. Nash Richards tried the center door. It was locked. He pushed the bell. There was silence. He pushed again, held the button down, and was rewarded with a faint buzzing as the latch was released from the rooms above.

The two men went single file through the door, found themselves in a narrow hallway facing a narrow flight of stairs. Mark led the way up, his feet clattering against the brass edging of each step. He stopped abruptly near the head of the stairs, so abruptly that Jim bumped into him.

"Mrs. Hughes," Richards said. "This is a surprise." He could have saved the last four words. His voice had demonstrated his astonishment.

"Lieutenant Richards."

Jim poked his friend in the back, reminded Mark of his presence. Richards went on up the few remaining steps, and Jim was able to join him in the small hallway or anteroom.

(To Be Continued)

Five such meetings will be held in southern Illinois with the University of Illinois, Southern Illinois university and the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis co-sponsoring the program.

Life Expectancy Rise May Be Near End

CHICAGO — A New York doctor believes that unless medical men discover new methods, they are nearing the limit in increasing life expectancy.

Dr. Perrin H. Long, professor of medicine at the State University of New York, said the increase in the life span has been achieved mostly through the control of infectious diseases. But that method of deaths occurring in individuals of preserving life has about been worked out, Long wrote in the Illinois Medical Journal.

Life expectancy at birth has risen from 46.6 years in 1911 to 68.4 years in 1951.

"It appears quite clear," Long said, "that we have almost reached the maximum of increase in life expectancy which can be gained by control of infectious processes in the United States."

"In 1951, but about 20 per cent during the Civil War when cotton could not be obtained from the South, much of it was grown in Southern Illinois. As late as 1873 one firm in Carbondale gained more than 300,000 pounds of cotton—(SIU)."
